DETAILED ACTIONDouble Patenting

1. The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. A nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting rejection is appropriate where the conflicting claims are not identical, but at least one examined application claim is not patentably distinct from the reference claim(s) because the examined application claim is either anticipated by, or would have been obvious over, the reference claim(s). See, e.g., In re Berg, 140 F.3d 1428, 46 USPQ2d 1226 (Fed. Cir. 1998); In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) or 1.321(d) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent either is shown to be commonly owned with this application, or claims an invention made as a result of activities undertaken within the scope of a joint research agreement.

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

2. Claims 9-13 are rejected on the ground of nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 5-9 of U.S. Patent No. 6,692,507 in view of Bedi et al. (4,724,839). U.S. Patent No. 6,692,507 discloses the fastener substantially as claimed, but does not claim that the flange formed on the sleeve of the fastener is substantially circumferential and extends into a bore of the sleeve. Bedi et al. teach, at least in figures 4 and 5, a sleeve of a fastener including a flange (34) that is substantially circumferential and extends into a bore of a sleeve. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made, to include a flange that is substantially circumferential in the sleeve of U.S. Patent No.

6,692,507. Such a flange would allow better securement of the male member of the fastener when it is inserted into the bore of the flange.

3. Claims 14-21 are rejected on the ground of nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 10-16 of U.S. Patent No.

6,692,507. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because they claim, inter alia, a biocompatible fastener including male and female portions, where at least one of a flange of the female portion and a head of the male portion comprises a outer coating coated over one of a non-bioabsorbable material and a second bioabsorbable material, where the outer coating comprises a first bioabsorbable material, where the second bioabsorbable material has a degradation rate slower than a degradation rate of the first bioabsorbable material.

Allowable Subject Matter

4. Claims 1-7 and 22-27 are allowed.

5. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance: None of the prior art of record, alone or in combination discloses a biocompatible fastener including, inter alia, a pair of members matingly engageable with one another, where at least one of the members comprises an outer coating of a first bioabsorbable material coated over an inner core that comprises one of a second bioabsorbable material and a non-bioabsorbable material, where after the members are matingly engaged with one another, degradation of the outer coating over the inner core causes the pair of members to disengage from one another.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."

Response to Amendment

6. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 9-21 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
